New Website Coming Soon!

If you've ever created a website you probably have some idea of the amount of work and time it takes. I have high hopes for the new site and am using every spare minute I can to get it up and running.

It will be a few weeks before it launches, but I think it's going to be much better than the previous site.

I hope you'll be one of the first to visit the site when it goes live. If you'd like to be notified when the big event happens, visit www.mybooklandia.com to sign up. I have a sneaking suspicion there will be something special just for those early visitors!

I've updated my calendar and am excited to add some new events. Even more will be added soon. I wanted to highlight a couple of new events coming up this Spring.

April 22 is Earth Day! This year is My Booklandia's first Earth Day event. Upcycled books are a great fit for Earth Day, and it looks like it will be a great day for everyone attending. Join me at Southside Park in Sacramento. For more info visit the official website.

This May, over Mother's Day weekend, My Booklandia will be part of the East Sac Garden Tour. This is a wonderful event and I'm really excited to be a part of the artisan boutique. Tickets are $15 and give you access to some amazing private gardens, plus it's a school fundraiser, so the proceeds go to a good cause. For more info and to get your tickets visit the site at East Sac Garden Tour. Tickets go on sale April 1.

FUN BOOK FACTS

There are over 129 million books in existence.

According to Google, 129,864,880 million books had been published as of 2010. There's a reason why upcycling books is a good idea!

There's an actual word for loving the smell of old books.

"Bibliosmia" is the word the act of smelling books. If you've ever gone through a stack of old books and enjoyed the scent I can relate. I know I have. I've noticed, when working on some of the vintage books, that there is a scent of perfume when I'm working with them. I can only guess that at some point people sprayed their books with perfume. Or they're haunted. I'll let you be the judge.

There are even perfumes you can buy that are supposed to smell like old books. One is called "Dead Writers." With a name like that I'd be a little leery..

“Books are the quietest and most constant of friends; they are the most accessible and wisest of counselors, and the most patient of teachers.”

– Charles William Eliot
